

Awareness programme regarding Fundamental Duties

On 11 March 2020 department of Political Science of Govt. College Sanjauli, organized one day activity on the relevance of fundamental duties in present time.

Objective of this event was to sensetise students that while emphasizing on rights it simultaneously very important that the citizens are also aware about their duties towards the society at large and the country especially reflecting values of it's constitution underlying the idea of India.

Awareness programme regarding Fundamental Duties

Wide range of activities were organized like debate, declamation and PPT presentation by the students related to fundamental duties mentioned in Part IV of the constitution under article 51 A.

Dr Devender Sharma delivered a lecture on the duties of citizens to strengthen the idea of India constituted by three important elements i.e. Democracy, Diversity and Development. He explained that how these elements were evolved as pillars of republic of India after hundred years of struggle against colonialism and that intellectual experience of our leaders in freedom movement.

Though these ideas were alien or Western in nature but India valued these ideas in its own way of experiences and made them Indian. India democratized the idea of democracy. Unlike Europe India did not reduced it's diversity into nation state but accepted this diversity as strength not as weakness.

India evolved it's indigenous idea of development unlikely following European modal of development.

Awareness programme regarding Fundamental Duties

He

appealed the students to disseminate this message deep into society for larger discourse so that every citizen could feel his or her responsibility to protect idea of India for probable threats.

Principal Prof. C B Mehta and Prof. Poonam Chandel also addressed the audience and threw light on the relevance of fundamental duties in present time.
