It brought together students and community members to support this important public health cause. The initiative also reflected Rotary's continued commitment to building a healthier and polio-free world.

PARTICIPATION AND INITIATIVE

Rotaractors actively participated in the walkathon alongside many schoolchildren and other participants. Everyone came together with the common goal of spreading awareness about polio prevention and the importance of vaccination.

The walkathon was a wonderful opportunity for students to contribute to a cause that affects communities around the world. The participation of schoolchildren made the event even more meaningful, showing how young people can play an important role in spreading awareness and encouraging positive change.

IMPACT AND SIGNIFICANCE

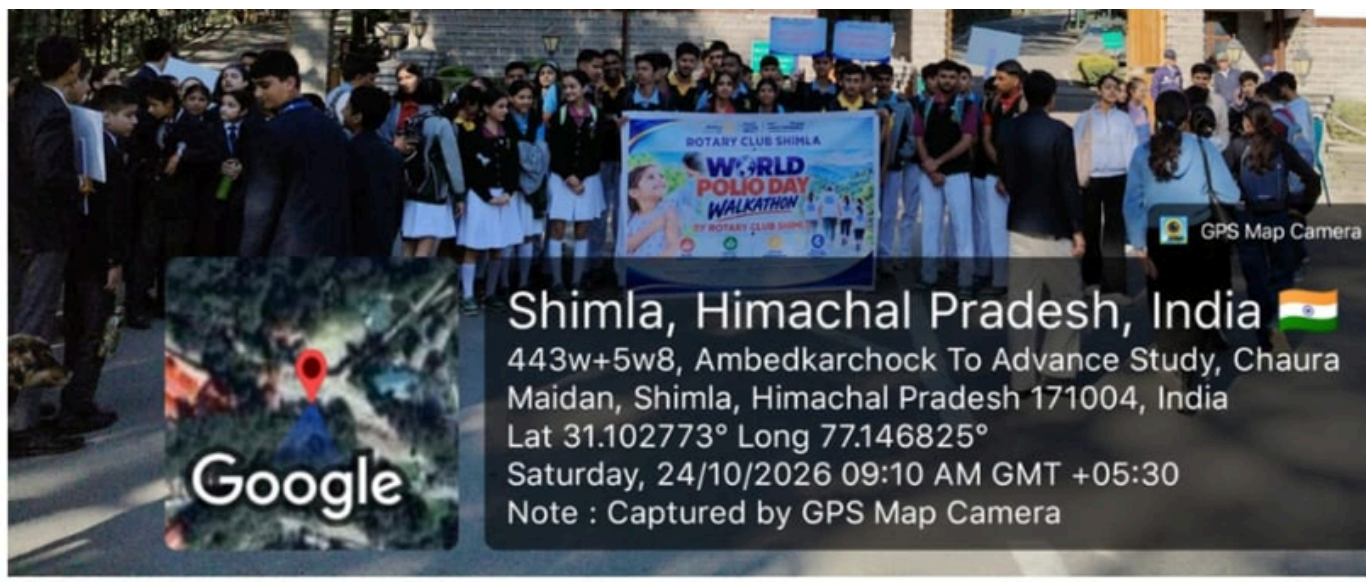

The walkathon highlighted the importance of vaccination and regular immunisation in preventing polio. It supported Rotary's global campaign, "End Polio Now!", and encouraged people to work towards a polio-free future.

The event helped spread the message that awareness and timely vaccination are essential in protecting children from polio. It also inspired young participants to become more aware of public health issues and their role in society. Such initiatives remind us that even small efforts, when made together, can bring meaningful change.
